MUSIC PERMISSION SHEET

If you have used music in your film, you must get the music rights cleared. There are several options available including:

- Non-licensed music: compose and record music yourself, or commission someone to do it.
- Copyright-free music from an online source, or create your own music using a programme containing loops and samples.
Example: Free Downloads of Veggie Songs: www.paulseymour.com.au/VeggieSongs
- Published music which is anything you can buy in a record store, hear on the radio, or have in your own collection at home.
- Performing and recording your own version of public domain music.

You must fill out this form for each applicable option:

1. Owner's Permission for use of Non-Licensed Music

(Note: If the owner of the music was contacted via the web and is overseas, you may attach an e-mail from the owner giving permission for use of the music.)

Title of film: _____

Title of music track/s used: _____

I have permission to use the above music in my film entry for the Think Kind Competition. The owner understands that the NZ Vegetarian Society has non-exclusive world-wide rights in perpetuity to screen the above film.

Film Maker:

Name: _____ Signed: _____ Date: _____

Owner of Music:

Name: _____ Signed: _____ Date: _____

2. Copyright Free Music Confirmation

If downloaded: Website address and Track Name/Number:

From CD/Tape: Album Title and Track Name/Number and Production Company:

Self-Made: Programme/Software used, and maker:

3. Copyright Music

Obtaining the rights to use commercially available music can be complex and expensive, but entrants are still free to apply. To use an existing commercially-available CD or music score, you will need the consent of both the artist, by applying to APRA, and of the record company, directly, or through Phonographic Performances Limited. Note: NZ-based artists and record companies may be easier to contact. Phonographic Performances Limited: <http://www.rianz.org.nz>
For more APRA film music copyright information: <http://www.apra.co.nz>

4. Public Domain music

If a composer has been dead more than 50 years then their score is out of copyright for NZ productions and can be re-recorded.
